

Gregory Moody

Assistant Director of Assessments and Field Operations
Division of Property Assessments

Greg Moody is the Assistant Director of Assessments and Field Operations in the Tennessee Comptroller's Division of Property Assessments. Greg oversees more than 60 employees in the Division's five field offices across the state. Greg and his team ensure that county reappraisal programs are completed as scheduled, and perform sales ratio studies for each county as required.

Greg has spent more than 25 years in the property assessment profession. He began his career with the Division of Property Assessments in 1990. In 1995 he began working for the Shelby County Assessor of Property, where he held numerous positions including the Director of Appraisal. In 2014, Greg returned to the Division of Property Assessment to begin his current role.

Greg is a proud member of the International Association of Assessing Officers. He currently holds the IAAO designation of Certified Assessment Evaluator. Greg is the past president of the Tennessee Chapter of the IAAO and was named its member of the year in 2008.

Greg and his wife Leslie have one grown daughter, Caitlin, who is a student at UT Knoxville. In his spare time Greg enjoys playing disc golf and competes in several tournaments each year.
