

Nneka Norman-Gordon
Higher Education Resource Officer

Nneka Norman-Gordon is the Higher Education Resource Officer for the Tennessee Comptroller of the Treasury. Nneka is responsible for answering questions and providing support and information to faculty, staff and employees of the University of Tennessee system and the Tennessee Board of Regents system. Nneka also reviews higher education policy for the Tennessee General Assembly.

Nneka joined the Comptroller's Office in 2005 as a Legislative Research Analyst for the Offices of Research and Education Accountability. Since 2011, she has served on the Comptroller's legislative team. She previously served the former Tennessee Department of Personnel as an examinations analyst. She was promoted to her current position in 2013.

Nneka is a former United States Navy officer. She holds a M.A. in Industrial/Organizational Psychology from Austin Peay State University, and a B.A. in Psychology from Hampton University in Virginia.

Nneka enjoys spending time with her son, and stays involved in the Tennessee Chapter of the American Society of Public Administration and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

