Data on the use of corporal punishment is self-reported by schools and districts biennially (i.e., every other year) to the Office for Civil Rights (OCR) within the U.S. Department of Education. A multiyear lag exists between the reporting year and when data is publicly available; the most recent publicly available data on corporal punishment use is from the 2015-16 school year. Beginning with the 2018-19 school year, schools will begin reporting corporal punishment data annually to the Tennessee Department of Education.

This appendix includes schools that reported data to OCR in one or more of the past four reporting years.

Variables

When schools report corporal punishment data to OCR, students with disabilities are reported as receiving services under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) or Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504).<sup>A</sup> OREA combined the number of students receiving services under both programs to create the variable “students with disabilities.” The category for “students without disabilities” includes all other students enrolled that were not identified as receiving disability services or accommodations.

Formulas

Rates of use were calculated for each school that reported using corporal punishment. The rates for individual schools were calculated by using the enrollment of students with and without disabilities per school and number of students with and without disabilities receiving corporal punishment per school that reported corporal punishment data. (See Exhibit 1.)

Exhibit 1: Formulas used to calculate rates of use for schools

Rate of corporal punishment use for students with disabilities per school = <math display="block">\frac{\text{Number of students with disabilities receiving corporal punishment per school}}{\text{Number of students with disabilities enrolled per school}}</math>
Rate of corporal punishment use for students without disabilities per school = <math display="block">\frac{\text{Number of students without disabilities receiving corporal punishment per school}}{\text{Number of students without disabilities enrolled per school}}</math>

<sup>A</sup> OCR instructs schools to report any student receiving services under both IDEA and Section 504 under IDEA only (not both categories) to prevent a duplicate headcount. See Appendix C in the full report for an explanation of these federal disability programs.

Potential issues with rates based on small numbers

The rates of use of individual schools are based on small numbers of students (especially the rates for students with disabilities) which can be problematic. Because the denominators are small, a minor change in the numerator can produce volatile rates of use. For example, a school may have a total of 10 students with disabilities enrolled, and if two of those students receive corporal punishment, the school's rate of corporal punishment use for students with disabilities would be 20 percent. Adding or subtracting one student with disabilities receiving corporal punishment would change the rate of use by 10 percentage points in either direction.

For students without disabilities, the denominator is typically larger (i.e., schools typically have more students enrolled without disabilities than with disabilities), so a change to the numerator creates a smaller change in the rate of use. If a school has 300 students without disabilities enrolled, and 30 of them receive corporal punishment, the school's rate of use is 10 percent. Adding or subtracting one student receiving corporal punishment creates a much smaller change to the school's rate of use, about one-third of 1 percentage point in either direction. In this example, removing one student receiving corporal punishment creates a rate of use of 9.67 percent while adding one student creates a rate of use of 10.33 percent.

One study<sup>b</sup> addressing this issue suggests using averages across multiple years (i.e., five-year average enrollment and number of students receiving corporal punishment) to reduce volatility in rates from one year to the next. It was not possible to calculate five-year average rates of use per school for this report because many schools do not report corporal punishment data in each reporting year. It would be problematic to create multiyear average rates of use for some schools but not all schools.

To address this issue, Appendix E contains enrollment and corporal punishment use numbers alongside the rates of use for each school that reported data in one or more of the past four reporting school years (2009-10, 2011-12, 2013-14, and 2015-16). Readers can compare the rate of use to the number of students enrolled and receiving corporal punishment, rather than the rate of use alone.

Reporting errors exist

The data on corporal punishment is self-reported, and OREA's research identified some reporting errors.

After reviewing 2013-14 data in an interview, administrators at one school indicated they had reported the number of instances of corporal punishment, not the number of students receiving corporal punishment. (Schools were not required by OCR to report the number of instances of corporal punishment use until the 2015-16 school year.) This reporting error inflated the school's rate of use. Additionally, when reporting data to OCR for the 2009-10 school year, one school listed a greater number of students receiving corporal punishment than were enrolled in that category, resulting in a rate of use over 100 percent. Other schools may have misreported corporal punishment data in this manner.

Beginning with the 2015-16 school year, OCR requires that schools report the number of instances of corporal punishment use in the school year, as well as the number of students who received corporal punishment. Of the 332 schools that reported corporal punishment data in 2015-16, 183 schools reported a greater number of students receiving corporal punishment than the number of instances corporal punishment was used for that school year. It is unclear if this is a reporting error or if districts are reporting different data based on their interpretations of the reporting instructions. The data reporting instructions provided to schools and districts by OCR does not clearly specify if an instance of corporal punishment can include more than one student.

These caveats should be considered when reviewing Tennessee's corporal punishment statistics.

Notes: (1) A rate displayed as a dash (-) indicates no students were enrolled in that category. (2) A single asterisk (*) denotes a school that reported a greater number of students receiving corporal punishment than the number of instances corporal punishment was used in the school year. Over half of schools reported a greater number of students receiving corporal punishment than the number of instances corporal punishment was used in the 2015-16 school year. It is unclear if this is a reporting error or if districts are reporting different data based on their interpretations of the reporting instructions. (3) A double asterisk (**) denotes a rate over 100 percent, which indicates a likely reporting error. (4) A caret (^) denotes a school that reported instances of corporal punishment for a category with no students reported as enrolled or no students receiving corporal punishment for that same category. This is likely due to data suppression (e.g., OCR may suppress enrollment figures if only one or two students are enrolled in a category, though the instances of corporal punishment use are not suppressed).
